INTERNATIONAL

NEMACOLIN ASTHMA CONFERENCE

HEALTH SCIENCES CENTER

Conference Overview

Despite significant advances in our understanding of the pathophysiology and treatment of asthma, and the availability of national and international guidelines on the diagnosis and treatment of asthma, recent surveys show that asthma control and morbidity have not improved. Research is being conducted to address many of these issues. This conference will bring the latest research developments in this rapidly changing field to health care professionals practicing, researching, and teaching asthma care.

Asthma exists in diverse environments and populations and varies in severity by time and patient. Moreover, based on the results of recent research, asthma is being viewed less as a disease and more as a syndrome with multiple phenotypes and endotypes. The resultant heterogeneity forms the basis for the education and discussion embedded in the Nemacon International Asthma Conference, which takes pride in being one of the only conferences in the world dedicated exclusively to asthma. Its purpose is to create a highly interactive educational environment, including the world's best asthma researchers, teachers, and clinicians, to critique cutting-edge research and translate key research findings into clinical pearls that will benefit patients with asthma.

Intended Audience and Conference Objectives

This conference is intended for primary care physicians, pediatricians, pulmonologists, allergists, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, ENTs, and asthma specialists.

Target Audience:

- All practicing allergists/immunologists and pulmonologists
- Fellows in allergy/immunology and pulmonary training programs
- Primary care physicians who care for asthma patients
- Allied health professionals with interest in asthma

Learning Objectives:

At the conclusion, participants should have the ability to:

- Identify major advances in key areas of cutting-edge research in immunologic mechanisms and allergic responses, including pathophysiology of the upper and lower airways.
- Describe basic processes linking molecular and cellular biology and genetics with allergy and asthma pathophysiology.
- Translate emerging clinical science principles to clinical practice in patients with allergy and asthma.
- Evaluate and implement state-of-the-art diagnostic and therapeutic strategies for treating patients with allergy and asthma.
- Explain the impact of environmental exposures and external influences on patients with allergy and asthma.
- Recognize emerging trends in the prevalence of allergy and asthma and discuss their impact on public health.
- Evaluate the impact of new diagnostic and therapeutic strategies on health care costs and outcomes.
- Discuss processes, tools and technologies for the efficient allergy and asthma practice.

Intended Outcome

To positively impact the morbidity and cost of asthma by providing health care practitioners with recommendations on the care of patients with asthma that are based on the most up-to-date research conducted by the world's leading asthma experts.
